Quality of Life: Towards a Better Society

The International Society for Quality-of-life Studies (ISQOLS) is holding its 15th Conference from September 28th to 30th 2017 in the beautiful city of Innsbruck, Austria. The conference's theme is "Quality-of-life: Towards a Better Society". Over 500 high quality abstracts have been submitted to the conference.

ISQOLS conferences provide a space for scholars to present their research findings on quality-of-life, well-being, and happiness, as well as to discuss their relevance for policy making. ISQOLS gathers scholars from all corners of the world, from many disciplines, with different methodological and theoretical perspectives, and following different approaches, but with one common goal: generating research-based knowledge to contribute to the well-being in societies.

Session: SEATS ARE LIMITED!

The International Society for Quality of Life Studies has organized several Ph.D. workshops or sessions in its history. The first workshop was held at the conference in Girona, Spain, in 2000, and the last in Venice, Italy, in 2012. These workshops were evaluated as highly valuable, both by the involved students as the experts in their field and invited students as the experts in their field.

This year, a Ph.D. breakfast session will be organized at the ISQOLS conference in Innsbruck, Austria.

The Ph.D. breakfast session will be held on Friday, September 29th in the morning.

We invite Ph.D. students to apply, who are in an advanced stage of their studies, and who would like to present their work to Faculty members in the broad Quality of Life area. The session gives you an opportunity to discuss your work in depth with leading experts in your specific subject. Another advantage of this breakfast session over general paper sessions is that 45 minutes are dedicated to your work, instead of the usual 15-20 minutes.

The idea is to have a session in which you present either a relevant paper or (more preliminary) projects of your Ph.D. study. A selected group of experts will be invited to listen to your presentation and give comments during the session. Extra bonus is the breakfast.

We would like to stress that at this point only one space is available, so entering this Ph.D. breakfast session is competitive, and may result in a decline of your proposal for this particular session.

Instructions for submission and presentation

- Please describe which relevant paper or project of your Ph.D. study you would like to present.
- State the goal(s) of your study and main research questions.
- Describe shortly your research design.
- Summarize your main results or expected results.
- Describe which questions you would like to address during your discussion, and which type of feedback you would like to receive from the selected experts.
- Finally also shortly describe why you think this breakfast session would benefit your work.
- Your submission must not exceed 1 page and be sent to: breakfast@isqols2017.org latest by July 1st, 2017.

The presentation itself should not exceed 10-15 minutes, so there will be 30-35 minutes of time for discussion.
